

THE SPAGHETTI WEST

A celebration of the classic Italian westerns of the 1960s

This IFC® original documentary celebrates the history of the Spaghetti Western—the wildly popular cinema classics of the 1960s created by Italy's finest filmmakers. Americans may have lost interest in Westerns after the 1950s, but their European cousins carried on the tradition of the Wild West horse opera in hundreds of productions over subsequent decades. THE SPAGHETTI WEST explores the genre's rise and continued popularity over three decades with rare footage from dozens of classic Italian westerns, original trailers, and insightful interviews with cast and crew including Clint Eastwood, Ennio Morricone, Ferdinando Baldi, Sergio Corbucci and Damiano Damiani.

- This feature-length documentary originally aired on the IFC® Channel.
- Features interviews with staples of Spaghetti Westerns including Clint Eastwood, composer Ennio Morricone, and dozens more.
- Showcases over 600 rare clips from classics like A Fistful of Dollars, Once Upon a Time in the West, The Good, the Bad and the Ugly, and many other hard-to-find films.
