

HACKING DEMOCRACY

The film the Diebold Corporation doesn't want America to see

A shocking exposé about the American voting system, HACKING DEMOCRACY bravely tangles with our nation's ills at the heart of democracy. This revelatory journey follows tenacious, Seattle grandmother, Bev Harris, and her band of extraordinary citizen-activists as they set out to ask one simple question: how does America count its votes? Equipped only with a powerful sense of righteous outrage, the activists take on the voting machine industry, exposing alarming security holes in America's voting machines.

HACKING DEMOCRACY takes a nonpartisan, clear-eyed look at the secrecy, cronyism, and incompetence of elections in present-day America as it captures a citizen's movement intent on taking back elections—and democracy itself.

- Premiered on HBO on November 2, 2006.
- Perfectly timed to address the weaknesses of America's computerized voting system.
- Featuring a broad variety of computer-science experts, politicians and activists.

“Disturbing stuff... it's not shocked-shocked you feel watching this; it's genuine shock”
